OUR MISSION: “Bringing people and woodland sustainability together”

Who We Are:

- Our members are interested in resource conservation, sustainable timber production, fish and wildlife management, and recreation. Woodland ownership ranges from those with several acres to those with more than a thousand. Membership includes those who reside on their woodland property as well as absentee owners and associate/business members.
- Our “Sister” organization is the Kentucky Woodland Owners Foundation (KWOFF), a 501 (c) 3 charitable organization to further our mission with:
  - Annual Scholarship to University of Kentucky forestry students
  - Annual Recognition to an Outstanding Service Forester
  - Financial assistance for various programs such as: Woodland Owner Short Courses, Leopold Conservation Awards, Kentucky Forest Leadership – Youth Program
- We cooperate with various organizations to further our mission by providing members access to proven resources and successful programs. Allied organizations include (but are not limited to):
  - American Forest Foundation, American Tree Farm System and Stewardship Forest Program
  - National Woodland Owners Association (NWOA)- State Affiliate
  - University of Kentucky Department of Forestry and Natural Resources School & Extension Service
  - Kentucky Divisions of Forestry (KDF) and Water (KDOW) and Kentucky Conservation Districts
  - Kentucky Forest Industries Association (KFIA)
  - Kentucky Farm Bureau (KFB)

What We Do:

- Advance the skills of Kentucky woodland owners through educational activities, interaction with other landowners and forestry professionals, and awareness of state and federal forestry assistance programs. We also encourage and support the formation of local forestry organizations
- Provide a voice for Kentucky woodland owners in legislative activities
- Raise public awareness regarding the value of woodland management and its contribution to the state's economy, recreation, natural lands preservation, wildlife habitat, water quality, and the environment in general.
- Encourage economically and environmentally sound forest management practices including:
  - Control of invasive vegetative species, insect problems, and diseases
  - Preventing forest fires, timber theft, and unlawful trespassing
  - Fairness in timberland taxes
  - Farm owner insurance policies that do not discriminate against tree farmers
  - Forest certification to assure a reliable supply of sustainably grown wood, which might result in higher prices for standing timber
  - Sustainable timber harvests that meet water quality best management practices.
- Work with the Forest Health Task Force, initiated by KWOA

Member Services: Our members and allies volunteer their time and resources to provide these services:

- The Wood Post, periodic messages (usually one a month) providing timely information by email
- Quarterly newsletter
- Annual meetings with two days of hands-on field demonstrations and other educational programs
- Co-sponsor multiple field days and training events across the state
